Highlights

Matteo Castiglioni is an assistant professor (RTD-A) at the Department of Electronics, Information, and Bioengineering of Politecnico di Milano. His research focuses on artificial intelligent, algorithmic game theory and online learning. In particular, his research aims to combine machine learning techniques with economic paradigms to build strategic agents able to act in complex multi-agent environments. He got his PhD in Information Technology with laude from Politecnico di Milano with a thesis on asymmetric-information games and Bayesian persuasion under the supervision of Nicola Gatti. His PhD thesis was awarded the Premio Cadoli, awarded by AIxIA to the best Italian PhD thesis on artificial intelligence, and the Chorafas Award, awarded by the Dimitris N. Chorafas Foundation. He is the author of more than 30 peer reviewed research papers. In particular, he published in the premier AI journal Artificial Intelligence (6), and in the premier AI conferences ICML (6), AAAI (6), IJCAI (4), NeurIPS (4), EC (3). He serves as a program committee member in several top-tier conferences. He taught a M.Sc. course on online learning at Politecnico di Milano. He also taught several courses (as teaching assistant) on algorithmic game theory. He participated in several industrial and research projects, assuming the position of principal investigator in some projects.. Currently, he is co-PI of a research unit in the "ELIAS" project funded by HORIZON-RIA.

Education

2018 2022	PhD in Computer Science and Engineering , Politecnico di Milano , Milano, Advisor : Prof. Nicola Gatti
2016 2018	MSc in Computer Science and Engineering , Politecnico di Milano , Milano, Thesis : Leadership in singleton congestion games : what is hard and what is easy Advisor : Prof. Nicola Gatti Mark 110 cum laude/110
2013 2016	BSc in Computer Science and Engineering , Politecnico di Milano , Milano Mark 110/110

Research Interests

His research focuses on Artificial Intelligence, especially Algorithmic Game Theory, Allocation Problems and Incentives, Social Influence, and Online Learning.

Algorithmic Game Theory	He is interested in the computational complexity of finding equilibria, and the development of efficient algorithm to compute equilibria both in full-information and online problems. In particular, his research focuses on the computation of equilibria in leader-follower games, Bayesian persuasion, and contract theory. Moreover, he is interested in the design of no-regret online learning algorithms for these problems.
Allocation Problems and Incentives	He is interested in the design of incentive compatible mechanisms for allocation problems, e.g. , auctions, and on the design of utility-maximizing algorithms for a single agent that takes part to these mechanisms, e.g. , bidders in auctions. His research mainly focuses on the design of efficient bidding strategies in repeated auctions with long-term constraints, e.g. , budget and return on investment constraints, using online learning algorithms.
Social Influence	He is interested in the study of the diffusion of information in social networks. He investigated the problem of manipulating elections and voting scenarios by persuasion and social influence. He provided the conditions under which the manipulation is affordable and when it is not, showing that computing the optimal manipulation is a computational intractable problem in basic settings.
Online Learning	He is interested in the design of online learning problems. In particular, his research focuses on the design of no-regret algorithms for game theory problems. Moreover, he is interested in online problems with uncertain long-term safety constraints.

Scientific Production and Metrics

Scientific Productivity	Author of 8 journal papers: 6 AIJ, 1 JAIR, 1 Algorithmica, including 7 top ranked Q1 journal papers (SCIMAGO). Author of 24 publications on peer-reviewed international conferences: 20 A++, 3 A+, 1 A according to GGS rating including 6 ICML, 6 AAAI, 4 IJCAI, 4 NeurIPS, 3 EC, 1 AAMAS.
publication impact:	Based on Google Scholar: h-index 13 citations 427 Based on Scopus: h-index 8 citations 181

Awards and Recognition

Winner of Premio per NeoDottori di Ricerca Marco Cadoli 2022 (AIxIA)

Award for the best Italian PhD thesis on artificial intelligence.

Winner of the Chorafas Award

Award by the Dimitris N. Chorafas Foundation to the best PhD students of each partner university.

Member of the ELLIS society

within the Milan ELLIS unit.

National Doctoral Scholarship

Three-years doctoral scholarship sponsored by the Ministry of Education, Universities and Research.
